THE CAMPAIGN TRIBUNE. 1868.

The Presidential canvass of 1868 is already certain to be one of signal interest and vehemence. The Great Issues, Peace, Law, Order, Inaugurated by Rebellion, and culminating in Johnsonism, instinctively welcome the struggle now opening as destined to close the long series of startling and exciting Contentions and Agitations, that for a score of years past, and Of all the false decrees which insulted and upheld the late boasted war for Democracy, the assumption that "This is a White Man's Government," wherein political rights and franchises are the rightful monopoly of a single race, is the most to be execrated and feared. Pointedly condemned by the Declaration of Independence, signally though quietly rebuked by the Federal Constitution (which recognizes among our people only "free persons" and "all other persons," and fixes, in both Schedules, a ratio of Whites and Blacks), and put to open shame by the undeniable fact that men of diverse colors fought under our flag, in our Revolutionary contest, in the War of 1812, and in our late desperate struggle to preserve the Union, it nevertheless finds a shelter under the Aladdin's lamp of foolish assertion of a natural, unconquerable Antipathy between the Caucasian and the African races, and a natural right of the latter to dispossess over the object of his hatred. This full account of the Great Contest for Freedom in the Southern States, of hostility and bloodshed alone remains to be overcome; and the first Tuesday of November next must see it unhorsed and put at rest forever.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE proposes to do its little utmost to aid every effort for Impartial Liberty and Equal Human Rights. Believing the triumph of the Republicans therein to be the natural and logical complement and consummation of that "struggle for the rights of Human Nature" which our Revolutionary fathers so nobly initiated, it enters upon the Presidential campaign with a perfect confidence that it will be, must be, one of unqualified sentiment and intensity, but with a profound and joyful conviction that it can have but one result—a result which will be hailed with glad and grateful exultation by the champions of Liberty and Progress throughout the civilized world; but we are quite aware also that the victory will not be won without effort, and that the most perfect diffusion of Intelligence and Argument is prerequisite and essential to its achievement, or at least to its completeness.

We now regularly circulate 220,000 copies of our several editions, which are steadily increasing. We are able to print still more, and ready to do so for the bare cost of stock and labor. We propose, therefore, to publish a CAMPAIGN EDITION OF THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE,—to commence with the issue of May 27, containing the proceedings of the Chicago Convention, and end with 22nd of Nov. 11th—which we will send to clubs at the following rates:

For $3.20 received at one time . . . 8 copies.
For $6.30 received at one time . . . 19 copies.
For $12 received at one time . . . 40 copies.
For $20 received at one time . . . 70 copies.
For $30 received at one time . . . 110 copies.
For $40.50 received at one time . . . 150 copies.
For $50 received at one time . . . 200 copies.

The papers to all clubs to be sent to one address. If the papers are to be sent to names of subscribers, ten cents per copy in addition must be sent. Payable always in advance. Subscriptions are respectfully solicited.

INDIANAPOLIS.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10.

The Democratic Committee on Resolutions met this morning, and were engaged all day in framing the platform. The committee is composed of one man from each district. The platform will be reported to the State Convention to-morrow morning.

The Democratic Convention will meet at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, and will probably be in session two days. The Democratic State Committee met this evening, and fixed the basis of representation in the Convention at one delegate for every 300 votes cast for Governor in 1864, and one additional delegate for a fraction of 150 votes and over. This will give the Democratic Convention 1,200 delegates, and 601 will be necessary to a choice. The Democratic majority in the State is 20,000.

The Republican Convention will meet at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, and will be in session two days. The Republican State Committee met this evening, and fixed the basis of representation in the Convention at one delegate for every 200 votes cast for Governor in 1864, and one additional delegate for a fraction of 100 votes and over. This will give the Republican Convention 1,800 delegates, and 901 will be necessary to a choice. The Republican majority in the State is 20,000.

The Democratic State Convention.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 10.—The Democratic State Convention met here to-day, and was largely attended. Two hundred and fifty-six towns were represented. Hon. Benjamin F.
